What exactly does Paul Davis Restoration do?

Paul Davis Restoration is one of the nation's largest networks of full-service emergency services, restoration and reconstruction companies. We use the latest technologies and scientifically proven methods to restore property and belongings to victims of catastrophic events, such as floods, hurricanes and fires. We recover personal belongings that would otherwise be lost in these disasters.

Your company was already familiar with Ozone technology and it's cleaning power, is that correct?

Yes, we have large Ozone rooms that we use to remove the odor from furniture and appliances. Any clothing and bed linens that are recovered are washed in your machines using the Ozone System. Insurance companies save thousands of dollars because we are able to recover items instead of just replacing them. We were able to recover over 900 lbs of clothing for a single client.

How did you process clothing and linens prior to the install of the Kool Wash Aqua-Fusion System?

Before we found this system we had to send everything to a dry cleaners which was very expensive. We are now able to charge around $3.71 a pound to process the laundry. Which in turn can save our clients literally thousands of dollars. I have even brought my own personal water bed mattress cover and bed linens in from home just to see what it is like. The system is simply amazing.

How easy was the transition to using the system?

I have not had any problems with it. Anytime I encounter a problem, I call and they come. The system is very user friendly. It is very slick. We didn't even have to change chemical companies. It does the job we need it to do.
